FIRST NATIONAL STORES BUYS WILMINGTON LAND

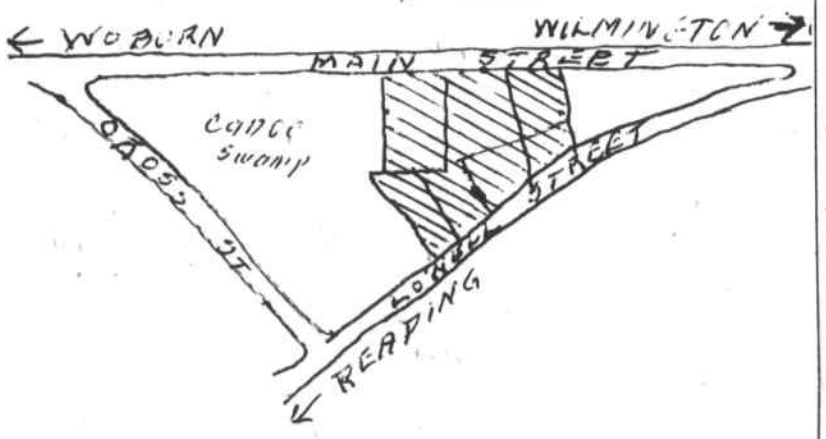

The First National Stores, of Somerville has announced that it has purchased about three acres of land, between Lowell and Main Streets, in Wilmington, and is now preparing plans for the erection of a modern supermarket on the site

The land was purchased from Raymond C. Booth, of Lowell Street, and consists of seven house lots, all contiguous, with frontage of three hundred thirty five feet on Main St. and 339 feet on Lowell Street.

Part of the estate consists of the old Capt. George McIntosh homestead, on Main Street which was sold a few weeks ago to Mr. Booth.

Capt. McIntosh bought the land sometime before the Civil War, and it was to this home that his wife, Mary Ann, went after her escape from New Orleans, with her children, through the Rebel and Union lines, during the war. Willie McIntosh, the last of her children to live in the house passed on last year.

The assessed property value of the tracts purchased by First National, according to the Wilmington Assessors, is $16,925.

CHAPTER 90 PROPOSALS UPSET HAGERTY

Francis J. Hagerty, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen was upset, Monday evening, because of a proposal of the Middlesex County Commissioners to have a hearing for Concord Street, proposed for Chapter 90 Construction Funds, instead of Glen Road, which the Selectmen had requested.

Hagerty felt that the Glen Road work was much more needed and said so, and Don Kidder backed Hagerty.

TM Calabrese pointed out that the County Commissioners had not had the Glen Road proposal as long as the Concord Street proposal, and that there would probably be a hearing for that street, too.

Glen Road will have its difficulties, the TM pointed out. The County Commissioners will not consider it without an extensive widening, 50 or 60 feet '50 at a minimum' and the TM pointed out that a lot of land would have to be taken at some points 'very close to the homes'.

There will probably be a hearing anyway, the TM assured Hagerty.

Hagerty thought, for instance that Chestnut Street would be preferable to Concord Street, which is already fairly straight, - 'but they won't consider that street'.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT?

The unknown, unsung ghost editorial writer of the Termite's House Organ has apparantly been relieved, and another ghost writer has slipped into the vacated spot.

For weeks we had a ghost writer who wrapped the American Flag around himself, fought the Revolution, and reviewed the more outstanding parts of the United States Constitution, meanwhile using all of these items to prove that the ignoble Town Manager Plan had nothing to do with any of his favorite subjects.

Our new ghost-writing editorial writer is trying to be all sweetness and light - the fight is over boys, lets forget it all!

So lets not forget a few things.

The Termites, and the Democratic Town Machine did all they could do to blacken the names of some of our people. They published the Blue the Red and the Yellow Sheets, all packed with lies. The Chairman of the Democratic Machine confidently expected that he was going to be the Kingpen, in Wilmington Town Hall, sitting in such a position where he could dictate the moves of the Board of Selectmen.

To their credit, there seems to be a few people in the Democratic Town Committee who were not sold out, by the Chairman. We perhaps do not know all of them, but we would say that John J. Davis, the Vice Chairman, Mrs. Cunningham, and Harold W. McKelvey had no part in the operation.

But the Democratic Machine, and the Termites working together tried to take over the Town Government of Wilmington. One of them tried to send the publisher of this paper to jail on a criminal charge. All of them engaged in calumny and lies, for their own purposes.

They were defeated, two to one. The people understood what they were trying to do. Now they are saying "let's be reasonable"

Would they have been reasonable if the vote had come out the other way?

GRAVEL TRUCK OPERATIONS

Along with the other planning done at the time we learned that the new highway was coming through Wilmington, our TM and Selectmen drew up a set of "gravel regulations"

It wasn't easy work. We punned that the Selectmen were "whiling away the stony hours" A lot of time and effort went into the planning, to try to prevent havoc being raised in our town by fly-by-night gravel operators, and heavy gravel trucks on our streets.

Yet the planning achieved no purpose. Gravel pits have been opened in defiance of the law. Our Building Inspector, who is also Zoning Officer, has taken the operators to court. Pending a decision the operations continue, until, in one case, it is completed. (Give the operator credit for doing a thorough, clean job. He has, in our estimation, actually improved the land.)

At the same time the trucks have torn up our highways. The Selectmen, Monday night, guessed that it would cost $70,000 to repair the damage

There are, at the present time, two bills in the Legislature which are designed to give the Zoning Officer more power. They were introduced by Rep. Frank Tanner. They are, we understand, having rough sledding.

Wilmington is facing the problem today. Next day it will be the turn of some other town.

All we can do is to hope that our Legislators can do something about the situation, and make life more bearable in other towns that will be faced with the problem.

FLASHING SIGNS

Flashing signs, like the juke box, seem to be of the more modern appendages of civilization.

There are horridly garish signs, and there are signs which are really attractive. A street crowded with signs, in competition, one with the other, is generally not attractive - but not always so. Those of our people who visited San Francisco during the late hostilities may recall with nostalgia the appearance, one by one, of the neon signs of Market Street, during the heavy "tule' fogs of that city.

But there are places, right here in Massachusetts where the flashing neon sign has become the trade mark of the honkey-tonk type of dive, which are to be found along some of our semi-rural highways in great profusion. There surely is no attractiveness to such display.

In Wilmington, at the time we voted our Model Zoning Law we voted out flashing signs. If there were any at the time, and we don't recall such, they have a right to exist.

But those which have come in since 1955 are illegal. They are appearing, more and more. And the Planning Board is beginning to plan an active war against them.

Some of these days some of our businessmen may find themselves taken to court, and ordered to take the signs down - or else.

TOWN NOTES

Late Peas

It begins to look as though there will be a late pea crop this year. Ordinarily the winner of our Mythical Golden Peaspoon has had his peas planted by St. Patrick's Day, and here we are in the last week of March, with frost still in the ground.

Spring came in with a vengeance, on the 19th - temperatures up to 68 degrees, and on Saturday too. Sunday morning, though, the temperature was down to 19.

We had .23 inches of rain, .12 on the 18th, with two inches of snow, and .11 on the 21st with thunder and lightning.

Attend Town Meetings

A note of the old fashioned type of Town Meeting comes from North Reading, where the Board of Assessors learned a lesson, last week.

There were no Assessors present at the time that the salary and expenses for Assessors came up for consideration.

The voters cut their salaries from $2100 to $1500, and their expenses from $1500 to $600.

Attendance

Our report of the Town Meeting in last week's paper has received a general commendation, from the citizens we meet on the street. Not one of them noticed that we had one error.

We reported 395 voters present. It was a typographical error. There were 495 voters at the meeting.

Sign

Somebody, Tuesday, put a sign on the Highway Department building reading 'Police Station', we are told.

The town voted the site of the garage for the new $75,000 Police Station.

Our information, which wasn't exactly certain, was to the effect that it was a joke by some of our gendarmes.

General Plan

Our General Plan report of a couple of years ago is acquiring some fame, or notoriety, depending on the point of view

The Planning Board, Tuesday night, received requests from two places, both of them overseas, for copies of the General Plan.

Nantucket (which technically is overseas) was one of the places. The other was the Inter American Housing Center, in Bogata, Columbia.

The Science Fair

We still cannot get over enthusing about the Science Fair in Wilmington High School, and the aftermaths thereof.

For one thing, there was such a large number of the fairer sex, participating. We are always prepared, (with a shudder) to hear of the girls walking off with all the High Honors, in school, but to see them taking over the scientific fields too - pretty soon there will be nothing left for the menfolks.

We have a story in this weeks paper about Roger Luken, and his $1.49 cyclotron. The other Wilmington exhibit at MIT will be Alan Ford's Earth Life or Mars. Second place winner, George Lafionatis is not eligible for the MIT show, as he is only a freshman. However, his Wilson Cloud Chamber, and Warren Layne's Sulfur from Sea Water, and John Tobey's Heart of an Atomic Submarine were all exhibited at Technorama at Lowell last Friday, along with the two previously mentioned. Wilmington is allowed only two entrants at the MIT exhibit, which is state wide.

Cheaters

Meaning, of course, eye glasses. Doc Foster, President of the Rotary Club, whose picture appears in this week's issue, is a man who wears glasses.

But it will take a keen eye to see that he ever did. The picture of him shows a light line, where the glasses used to be worn, but the glasses themselves are not to be seen. He is wearing contact lenses, that fit right over the eyeballs.

Insurance

Bob Evans, whom we long ago

dubbed the 'Yankee Trader' is one jump ahead of everyone else, when it comes to getting his home moved.

His house, like many others, lies in the way of the new highway.

All the other homes, so far as we can tell, had to be moved at the owner's risk. No insurance company, it seems is interested in that type of insuring.

But Bob got insurance on his home, and for 2% too.

Bob Gunderson, who is on the TM's Insurance Advisory Committee, and is a 'big shot' in a Boston Insurance Company, looked up the subject, when he overheard a remark by the Yankee Trader that no insurance was available.

Bob Gunderson found it.

Selectmen's Meeting
(fr Fr pg)

Calabrese told the Selectmen that the County Commissioners want to widen Lowell Street from Perry's Corner to Elia's Corner - a statement which met with a rejoinder by Hagerty - 'I still can't see why that shouldn't be a State Highway', with which statement Mrs Drew agreed.

Andover Turnout

Selectman Nick De Felice, who had been attending a joint meeting of Andover and Tewksbury Selectmen, reported that those two towns wanted an exit from Interstate 93, near Lowell Junction, for industry in the two towns. They were asking Wilmington to appoint one Selectman and one member of the Planning Board, to a joint commission to take up the question with Highway Commissioner Di Natale.

The Wilmington Selectmen agreed to make such an appointment.

Youth Canteen

Selectman Don Kidder asked TM Calabrese if part of a storeroom, back of the Youth Canteen could be used by Boy Scouts for the storage of equipment. The storehouse at present has parts of old desks which are used occasionally by the School Maintainance Dept.

Streets

Hagerty and Kidder discussed the streets of Wilmington, now being torn up by State Highway (Contract) Trucks on Route 93. They estimated that the damages to the town would cost $70,000.

Gravel Trucks

Hagerty mentioned a firm which runs gravel trucks over Woburn Street to Main Street, and which has been shunted over to Cross Street, as damaging the highways, and moved that the money they have in escrow be used to repair these streets. It was so voted.

Hagerty then advised the TM that it would be wise to get more money deposited in escrow TM Calabrese thought that this would be impossible, because the firm is one of those that is currently in court over its operations.

Park Street

Hagerty mentioned that there are no lights on Park Street, beyond Gowing Road. 'I am sure that lights were there before we fixed the street'. 'Have we been paying for four or five lights we haven't used since last September?'

Junk Yards

Hagerty brought up for discussion two places near Lowell Street, that he felt should be cleaned up. - 'Let's take them to court!'

He was told by Mrs. Drew that in one instance it was already on the agenda of the courts.

Building

Referring to a building on Main Street, opposite Wiser, Hagerty asked the TM if anything had been done about abating a dangerous nuisance.

The TM explained that he was uncertain as to where he could get the money, if the town had to tear down the building.

'When I was on the Board of Health we burned down about 10 buildings - we paid the Fire Department $25 each time. The Finance Committee transferred the funds'

He called the fund that was used the 'Enforcement of Housing Code.'

Also pointed out as a hazard was the former Kimball home, on North Street, damaged some time ago in a fire.

Kidder: 'We spend so much time on our Model Zoning - if we devoted as much time to the old buildings --'

Storm Drainage

Hagerty proposed that the Selectmen, and TM, some evening after a good rainstorm take a trip around town, to spot trouble-making places, for drainage.

This, he said, would be a preliminary to the work which the TM is proposing be done by Whitman & Howard, Engineers, under funds he hopes to get from the Federal Government.

Oakdale Road

The Selectmen signed a new map of the Oakdale Road - Cedar Crest Road section in No. Wilmington, with a plan of a proposed easement to drain Oakdale Road. It now has to be signed by the Planning Board.

Chapter 81 Contract

Signed was a contract with the County for Chapter 81 (secondary roads) assistance for 1959.

Wilmington will provide $10,600, and the County $19,525.

The actual work will be decided later, by the County Engineer.

House

The Selectmen acceded to a proposal in which a house on Cook Hill will have back taxes for $1000 paid, by a person who wants to buy the place from its owner. It is a small building, with 610 square feet of floor space, and is worth, according to the TM $2700, but is in bad shape.

The back taxes amount to $1300, which means that $300 will have to be abated, first getting the permission of the State Commissioner of Taxation

Everyone agreed that it was better to do this than to go through the expense of a 'taking' and subsequent tax sale by the Town.

Hagerty asked that the Building Inspector and Sanitarian first post the building as 'Unfit for human habitation' so that there would be no question as to the purchaser knowing what he was buying.

Chairs

Among the bills signed was one for rental of chairs for the Town Meeting, coming to a total of $176.64.

Appointments

Mrs Olive Sheldon was again reappointed Clerk to the Selectmen.

Anthony Joanides was appointed to a one year term as an Associate to the Board of Appeals.

Licenses

A request from a South Main Street resident for a junk license was denied.

A license for a second taxi was granted to Ralph Zwicker of Mystic Avenue.

ROGER LUKEN - MAKER OF A CYCLOTRON

Collier's Encyclopedia provided the information for the Cyclotron. M2

There are 40 cyclotrons in the world, according to one source of information. The largest is, of course, in Russia, and the smallest in Wilmington, made by Roger Luken, a 16 year old boy, Junior in Wilmington High School.

Roger's cyclotron is not yet in full operating condition, but with some changes there is no reason why it will not work

It won, for Roger, a First Prize, in the Wilmington High School Science Fair, and a 9th place, at the Lowell Tech Science Fair.

It is to be improved, and shown in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on April 24-26. Later this year, when it is in full operating condition it is to be tried out, in Lowell Tech, under laboratory conditions.

Because of the voltage involved, a cyclotron such as Roger has made can be used only when properly shielded with 6 or 7 feet of water. The cyclotron will generate 1 million electron-volts, and has a dangerous radiation factor.

Roger's cyclotron was the result of an idea he got last summer, while reading Collier's Encyclopedia, last summer. He started working on it at that time, and to date has spent a total of $1.49 for parts.

There are 135 pounds of scrap laminated steel, a 58 pound magnet, and a transformer from an old TV set in the instrument. The only mistake he made (and one which cost him valuable points, in the Lowell Tech Show) was to make the Dee Electrodes out of steel. He should have used copper, and is now busy rectifying the error.

As yet the magnets are not in place - and some work remains before they can be placed. He does not have, it follows, a working model - but it will be in that classification before many more months have passed.

The cyclotron which Roger is making will transmute the lighter elements - lithium into hydrogen for instance. It will accelerate a proton to a speed of 26.6% of the speed of light.

The largest models, such as are in Russia and the University of California are capable of speeding electrons to a speed of 99.9% of light - over 186,000 miles a second.

Roger, the son of Mr and Mrs Francis Luten, has lived in Wilmington since 1953. He is named Roger John, for two uncles who were killed in World War II.

He is the president of the Wilmington High School Science Club, and has a nickname, in High School of 'The Walking Encyolopedia'. A student in the College Scientific Course, he has achieved a rating of being in the top 2%, of students (184,000 of them) who took the Harvard Plan examinations.

Roger doesn't particularly care for languages, but recognizes Miss Wilson, French teacher in Wilmington High School as being a very good teacher. His favorite teachers are Mr. Francis Kelley - 'real tough course' (mathematics) and Miss Farello and Edward Sullivan, of the Science Department.

His favorite gripe is that the courses in Wilmington High School are not realistic. He wishes that the studies were harder, and was very happy when he learned that Analytical Geometry would be available to him, in his Senior year

Rogers interests are manifold - down in the cellar of his home is a six inch reflecting telescope which he is making. He ground the lens himself, using carborundum powder Next summer he hopes to use the telescope - theoretically he should be able to read a newspaper with it - one and a half miles away.

Roger was born in Rhode Island - his father was serving in the US Coast Guard - and the family moved here in 1953 from Wakefield - where conditions were too crowded. He didn't get good marks in Wakefield Schools, but has always excelled here - but, as he says he wishes the curriculum were harder.

Roger examines the lens he made for his telescope. Behind him, (over his head) may be seen part of the telescope. M3

Tighe Triumphs

Another trophy, this time for the Long Island Championships, found its way to the Tighe Homestead on Chestnut Street last weekend. Janet found herself in a tie for total points with Florence Speth for the second weekend in a row, which necessitated a skate-off with her erstwhile opponent for the title. For the second weekend in a row, Janet was the victor

Little League Data

President Al Kasabuski of the Wilmington Little League wants to emphasize to all interested boys and their parents that it will take their fullest cooperation to insure success for Little League's earliest start in history this year. Pointing toward that May 9th date, boss man Al explained that less than a month is available between preliminary tryouts and opening day.

As the program stands now, registration forms will be distributed through the school system by Athletic Director Larry Cushing. Boys who will have reached their ninth but not their thirteenth birthday before August 1, 1959 must bring the completed form and at least one parent to the Registration Night at the high school cafeteria at 7:00 P.M. on Saturday, April 4. Further details concerning the coming season will be announced at that time, but one thing has already been established. The first tryouts will be held on Saturday, April 11, at 12 noon for boys whose Little League age will be 9 and 10. The following day, Sunday, boys 21 and 12 will try out starting at 1:30 P.M.

No registration forms will be accepted after April 4. Boys who cannot possible attend the Registration Night program (and no-one would want to miss seeing those special sports movies or partaking of those special Ladies Auxiliary refreshments) must contact the president, Mr. Al Kasabuski, before that date.

One other point: unlike some surrounding towns, the local Little League does not charge boys a fee to register.

Appointments

Managers of minor league boys have been announced as follows

Cubs: Jim Savage & son.
Braves: Al McMullen, Sr.
Al McMullen, Jr.
Giants: Ray Sampson
Russ Sampson
Cards: Ray McNamara
Joe Heleniak
Red Legs: George Szadis, Sr.
George Szadis, Jr.
Dodgers: Joe Peters
Al Dell Isola

Some of this year's umpires will be John Ritchie, Gerry Robertie, Bob Hastings, Joe Paglia, Bill Hanna, Tom Dromgoole, and John Waugh. Others will be needed, and volunteers for this hazardous duty are urged to apply to President Kasabuski.

The Wishing Well

The Wilmington High School Roosters have just purchased a wishing well to be used for raising funds for the boy and girl athletes of the high school. The well will be located in different parts of the town during the year.

This week you will find the well at Stevens Super Market beside the new Ford which is being given away. By putting some of your spare change in the wishing well, you will not only be helping the Roosters but maybe bringing yourself luck on winning the new car.

A HOUSE IS MOVED

House moving used to be a very common thing in Wilmington. The old farmers thought nothing of picking up a house, putting it on rollers and hauling it half a mile or so using oxen as motif party.

At the current time a number of houses are being moved in Wilmington, because of the new highway.

Last week Mr and Mrs John Dias of Andover Street moved a house from Andover Street to North Street. It was, perhaps the most difficult moving that ever took place in this town.

Moving a house a mile or so is old stuff to the firm of Porter & Desmond, of Woburn. They have been moving houses all over the place, as the various new roads are being constructed, in Eastern Massachusetts.

They contracted to move the house, for the Dias family, for $2100. It looked like a simple job - up Salem Street, to Middlesex Avenue, down Middlesex Avenue to North Street, and then down North Street, to the new site.

But their troubles were more than they bargained for.

The Building Inspector wasn't sure that they would be allowed to cross Salem Street, because it was a Numbered Highway. That had to be straightened out, and was, when the Town Counsel ruled that a $10,000 bond would be needed as a guarantee.

But then there was the matter of the utility poles, at the end of North Street.

Middlesex Avenue curves, at that point, and from the point of view of the Reading Electric Light and the Telephone Company, the curve ran in the wrong direction. There was no way in which the two companies could slacken off the wires - they were on the wrong side of the poles - on the outside of the curve.

The only thing to do would be to put in new utility poles, taller than the present ones.

That, Porter and Desmond learned, would cost $2000.

They decided to go another way - up Woburn Street, up High Street, down Linda Road, Pinewood Road, and finally on to North Street.

The job took three days. It was done with a minimum of cutting of trees, but with a maximum of worry, especially for Mary Dias, who tensely watched the whole operation.

The only casualty was her neice - Kathleen Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bradley of North Street.

In the very last moments of the long trip Kathleen, who is six years old, climbed on to a boulder to watch - and fell off.

She fell off - and is now home with her right arm in a cast - broken in two places.

Porter & Desmond haven't made any formal announcement of their profit and loss statement, but it is to be believed that the firm took a 'licking' in a financial sense.

The Telephone Company, too, lost money. Someone estimated that it cost the Telephone Company $600 for just one of the three days of the move.

The Electric Light Company because it is a municipal company - doesn't have to absorb the costs of their personnel. Some one will have to pay.

Town employees, too, will have to be paid. They were there by the dozens, it seems. Firemen, policemen, highway department, tree department, and others, who were there because of curiosity.

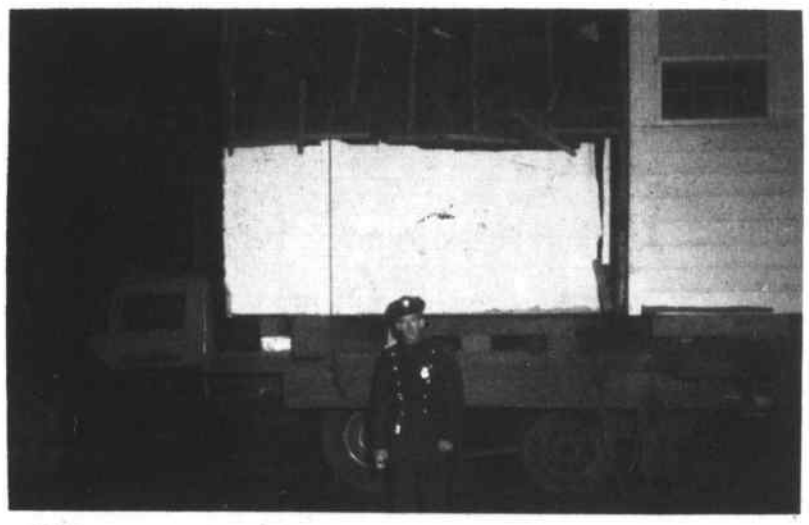

The house itself couldn't be insured, but it was brought through the ordeal with a minimum of damage.

Tommy Sullivan of the Wilmington Tree Dept. and Dutch Porter, son of one of the owners of the trucking company rode the roof, to clear away branches.

A pine tree, in front of the Pilling home, on Woburn Street falls, to make way for the house. Mrs. Pilling was glad to see it go.

Officer Herb Peterson kept the night watch.

A narrow squeak, on High Street. The house had to be 'snaked' back and forth to get thru this place without cutting rock maples.

LETTERS

Dear Sir:

Through the medium of your pa per, in the interest of Truth Fairplay and Justice, I would like to reply to your Mr Editor and to the letter which appeared in 'The Town Crier', March 19, 1959 issue signed by Freda H Bishop.

Ordinarily I would disregard a letter of this type, particu larly when it involves a neigh bor rather than the individual concerned. However, due to the fact that names of certain peo ple were used as authoritive sources and the article was printed in a newspaper whose readers undoubtedly would be lieve that the item was cor rect in every detail. This is not so!

The following statements which are prominent in the let ter I challenge;

1. Dr Logue authorized the use of the Ambulance.

Dr Logue called me and stated that he would not authorize the use of an Ambulance for a case of this nature.

2. It was ridiculous to ex pect the men to go out in the Ambulance in weather like this (it was snowing - Ed)

On the contrary this is the most ridiculous statement. At 11:25 a.m. this date a Heart Case was transported in the Am bulance. There have been oc casions where our men have transported patients to hos pitals through hurricanes, se vere rain and snow storms, at times it has been necessary to battle through snowdrifts dur ing serious snowstorms to ful fill our duties to the citi zens of our community.

3. Mr Hagerty told me that there was no reason the Ambu lance could not make the trip it was well equipped with snow tires and chains.

According to Mr Hagerty, he made no such statement.

4. I talked with Mr Calabrese That gentleman told me it was 'rather follish' to have a re fusal just because it was no stretcher case.

It certainly would be diffi cult to believe that Mr Cala brese would make any such statement, particularly when the Ambulance is operated un der the Rules and Regulations of the Town Manager and approv ed by The Board of Selectmen. Therefore, neither The Town Manager or any member of The Board of Selectmen would vio late these Rules and Regula tions.

In addition to the avove Mr Editor, I cannot conceive how you could possibly allow a let ter of this type to be printed in your paper with-out first checking the stories of all in dividuals concerned. perhaps you have your own private cru sade to belittle and discredit Town Employees.

Yours truly,
Wilmington Fire Department

To the Editor:

While reading your editorial in last weeks edition, we came to the part entitled 'Childish Voting .

Now that we have had our slap on the wrist, that you have taken upon yourself to admini ster, we will attempt to sink to your level and defend our selves.

To start with Mr. Editor, the majority of the Police and Fire Department members are veterans of World War II, who fought to defend their con stitutional rights, one of th ese being the right to vote the way they want without be ing critized by you and your paper. We, like other home own ers are also effected by the rise and fall of taxes, there fore, feel we have the right to vote at a town meeting the way we want without being pub licly ridiculed.

Along with the few of us who voted against the garage, there were also quite a few of the tax payers who felt the same as us and voted against it, you remember those people edi tor, they are the same people that buy your paper and help to support you and your family and keep the Town Crier crying If you were observant editor, you would have noticed that some of these people are well respected, and also deemed to be very intelligent. Do you consider their actions as childish and deserving of a slap on the wrist too?

In regards to the item in your Town Notes column concern ing Mr. Kaminskey. In talking to that gentleman instead of berating us as you stated, he extended both departments his thanks for our actions for sav ing his life. The night we re ceived the call from his neigh bor Mr. Viera, engine two with five men and two police cruis ers with four men, responded to North St. at 11:25 p.m. March 12, and found the house filled with smoke and the oxy gen nearly exhausted, then and only then did we remove Mr. Kaminskey from his home.

Last but not least, in answer to Mrs Bishops letter about the Fire Department not re sponding to a call. We like any other town Departments, have Rules and Regulations that are set up by our town officials. As for us not going out in the bad weather, I th ink if you will go back to Jan uary 1, 1958 up to and includ ing January 1, 1959, you will find approximately 315 persons who have had the use of our Ambulance Service and I think that any one of them would be glad to answer that portion of her letter. We try to answer all calls regardless of what they are, such as the time not so long ago that we went to your house when your oil tank sprung a leak and there was some 200 gallons of oil all over your cellar floor. I know about this instance for I was one of the men of this Depart ment who spent two hours clean ing up your cellar and helping the service man so that you could get heat again as soon as possible, or have you for gotten so quickly how much you praised us then.

We have quite a drawer full of letters from people from all sections of town who appre ciate whatever service we may have extended to them. Don't take us wrong Editor, we are not seeking praise for our job most times a thankless one, for nobody needs a fireman until they have a fire, nor do they need a policeman until they have trouble, but regardless of who you are or where you live, if you need us we are al ways ready to respond at a mom ents notice and to perform our services to the best of our ability, that is what we get paid for and why we are here.

So Mr. Nielson like any other city or town we are entitled to pull a boner once in a whi le, but so far you haven't come up with a boner yet, but when you do let us know, and we will try to get it straight ened out for you, so until then why not just for once try to get both sides of the story you will find it makes for bet ter reading if you do.

It seems to us here at the station that you could find more to write about in your paper than Criticise the way free people are entitled to vote. Websters Dictionary has a very good defination of the word DEMOCRACY. It may be well if you sort of take a quick peek at it. There's plenty of dirt in town to be dug up if you want to start digging, so come on down and borrow a sho vel Captain, and keep your slaps on the wrist for those people who can't slap back.

Dear Larz:

How come the other paper is sending me bills, in the mail? Don't they think I have enough bills to pay? I like the Town Crier. It is a good paper. We don't need the other one, and I don't sub scribe, and won't. They can stop sending me bills.

(Name withheld by request)

You're not the only person to get bills for that paper, when you don't subscribe. A number of our subscribers have come in to our office in the mis taken belief it was a bill from us.
